Turner to Meet Greck Grappler.
Joe Turner, the middleweight champion of Washington, will meet Jim Poulton, the Greck grappler, in a finish bout at the Gayety Friday night. The Greck is doing some hard training preparing for the bout, and an exciting contest is anticipated. Poulton has posted a side bet which was covered by Joe Turner, and said he was placed in the hands of P. F.
O'Connor, the official referee, winner to take all. Manager Peck of the Gayety has hung up a large purse and assures the lovers of the game an interesting bout.

PLAY ONLY ONE GAME OUT OF SIX

Last Contest Scheduled With Athletics Is Also Postponed.

TEAM ALREADY CERTAIN
OF FIVE DOUBLE-HEADERS

Griffith Will Need All the Pitchers He Can Carry—Latest Base Ball Gossip.

BY J. ED GRILLO.

But one game has been played out of the six which were scheduled to be played here since the season opened. Five games have been postponed, which means that the Nationals will have to play five double-headers already scheduled for the Nationals. At midnight the team leaves for New York, where the season will be opened tomorrow, provided, of course, that the weather permits. Today's game had to be called off because of the condition of the grounds, which is as soft as mush, as a result of the long siege of rainfall. While no game has been played for a week, Griffith has managed to keep his players in shape. They have been able to take some sort of practice every day. Yesterday they put in several hours at practice on the soggy field. There was batting practice and the pitchers all took a workout, while the fielders also put in half an hour at in-field work.

It is hard luck that five games were postponed. The chances are that the Nationals would have won a majority of these games while Boston and Philadelphia would have lost some ground, which would have given the locals a chance to gain somewhat of a lead. Even under favorable conditions the Nationals will now have but five games at home before they start on a month's trip around the circuit. One game has been played here and there will be four more, beginning next Tuesday with Boston. Then comes a trip to both Boston and Philadelphia and through the entire west. This is quite a hardship, but if the team can hold its own during this period it will be far from being out of the running.

It is not likely that Griffith will reduce his pitching staff for some time, if at all. Every pitcher he is now carrying is getting away with the team. In a regular championship game before he is dropped. No team is in more need of pitching strength than the Nationals. The enormous amount of double-headers that are sure to pile up for the team will make it necessary to carry a large corps of twirlers in order to weather these double matinees.

The veterans will not be able to do all this work, and Griffith will have to take a chance with his youngsters at such times. If these young fellows happen to get away with the team, the team will be apt to suffer no handicap by reason of the bunching of these postponed games.

It is more than likely that Walter Johnson will pitch against New York in the game tomorrow. Johnson has had a week's rest, and while all the other seasoned pitchers are in shape, it is figured that with Walter on the slab, the Nationals would be a better attraction at the Polo Grounds tomorrow than with one of the other twirlers working. Furthermore, it is figured that Walter's pitching is a better chance of beating McConnell, who is sure to pitch for Chance's team.

Connie Mack was not disappointed that his team could not play a game here. The club is none too strong at present now, and he figures that he will have a better chance against Griffith later in the season. The Athletics left for home this afternoon, where they are scheduled to open the season with Boston tomorrow. While the two strongest teams in the race are battling, the Nationals will be hooked up with New York, and while Chance's team is not expected to prove itself, it gives the Nationals a chance to get a lead on both of their nearest rivals.

The illness of Jack Coombs may prove a serious blow to the Athletics' chances. Mack figured on getting a long work-out of Coombs during the early part of the season and it is certain now that it will be several weeks before he will be ready to return to the team.

It may be, of course, that Mack's young pitchers will help him out, but it is certain that the Nationals will be in a better position than the team when it realizes that it must depend on a lot of youngsters to do the pitching.

NAVIN ROASTS COBB

Detroit Magnate Says Base Ball Made Tyrus a Star.

TRouble NOT OVER MONEY

Erratic Georgia Peach Must Submit to the Club's Discipline.

DETROIT, Mich., April 16.—Discipline, not money, is the all-important question at issue in the dispute between the Detroit American League base ball club and its star player, Outfielder Ty Cobb, who is now under suspension because he refused to accept the terms of the 1913 contract tendered him by President Navin.

This declaration was made by Mr. Navin today in a signed statement. It is understood that $2,500 is the amount involved in the monetary dispute. The statement reads:

"The difference between Mr. Cobb and the Detroit base ball club is not over a matter of money. There are fundamental principles involved—principles of discipline recognized in all walks of life.

"It is conceded by everybody that Mr. Cobb is the best ball player in the world. And Mr. Cobb is also the best paid ball player in the world. But this is not the issue.

"Mr. Cobb did not make base ball; base ball made him a player. A player cannot be bigger than the game which creates him. To give in to Mr. Cobb now in his present attitude would be to concede that he is greater than the game itself, for he has set all its laws at defiance.

"Mr. Cobb, instead of reporting for spring practice and giving the club the benefit of his knowledge and his play, organized a harristorming team and went through the south starting himself with daily ultimatums to the Detroit club. If Mr. Cobb can persistently defy the laws of the game what effect will he have on the other players and where will his team be in the end? The answer is plain—above the theory and the fact, he will turn the club over to him, and eventually the league.

"If Mr. Cobb doesn't like what a silly man in the grandstand yells at him he can go and yell at him. But he cannot be bigger than the game which creates him. To give in to Mr. Cobb now in his present attitude would be to concede that he is greater than the game itself, for he has set all its laws at defiance.

"The public would consider such action as cheap policy. Every city takes pride in its team, and it would be a disgrace to see a team that has been so successful in the past, and which should be a credit to the city, being so easily defeated by a player who has set all its laws at defiance.

"There is no doubt that if Cobb was put on the market, every major league club in the country would be willing to pay a fortune for his release, but while there is real rivalry between clubs for playing material, yet whenever a breach exists between club and player over salary difference, all clubs keep their hands off, just as a matter of self protection, for there is no telling when some other club may find itself in the same position with one of its stars.

Every now and then a pitcher of ability is allowed to slip into the minor leagues only to be recalled by some major league club and make good.

Fred Falkenberg seems destined to do the same thing. His initial game for the Detroit yesterday was a masterpiece, and he was a valuable man to have spent any time in the minors. Falkenberg has been a winner since he was left in the lobby of the Copley Square Hotel after yesterday's victory over the Red Sox, he handed him two fifty-dollar bills with the remark, "Here kid, this is a reward for your splendid work to-day."

Keating, who is but nineteen years old, had beaten the world's champion in the game yesterday. The other players on the team were as much pleased as was Keating, for it convinced them that good work will be appreciated. On the other hand, the Detroit club is in a predicament. The player had a hundred-dollar fine slapped on him for failing to be in his room at 11 o'clock last night.

STAR'S SCOREBOARD WILL DESCRIBE GAMES NATIONALS PLAY ON ROAD

Beginning tomorrow, when the Washington team opens the season in New York, and continuing all through the season when the team is on the road, The Star's electric scoreboard, which shows every play of a game, will be in operation on the 11th street side of The Star building.

The board will show the plays simultaneously with those made on the ball field. No details are omitted, and the nearest thing to actually seeing the game is to watch the operation of the board.

J. Ed Grillo, The Star's sporting editor, will accompany the Nationals on their trips, and his description of the games will be reproduced on the board by means of a special wire from the various ball parks direct to The Star office.

Yankees Nose Out Boston.
BOSTON, April 16.—Hits for extra bases gave New York a 3-to-2 victory over the world's champions yesterday. Keating, the Highlanders' recruit pitcher, twirled in the fourth after the first inning.

Chase played a star game at second base, making his first assist of the season at that position when he scooped Gardner's fast grounder in the sixth and made a lightning throw to first.

Chase's arm had been seriously injured in practice Monday were dissipated by his work yesterday. The second base play was a masterpiece.
